Prepare both a summary paragraph and a general description of the resource and its various elements as it exists today.

This interesting early twentieth-century bungalow faces west onto Solomons Island Road. It is set on a foundation of concrete blocks that have been molded to look like ashlar. It is a framed and weatherboarded, gable-roofed structure with a double-pile plan and a three-bay facade composed of a central sidelighted doorway and flanking three-part windows. There is a segmental-arched, gable-roofed porch set on trios of Doric columns. An off-center brick stove flue is part of the structure's heating system. Along with the front central porch, the most distinctive decorative features are the original decorative trellises that have been attached to the front corners of the house.
